I. Reading Comprehension Section (7.5 points)

Instructions: Read the story. Then choose the correct answer.

In the early 1960s, a farmer claimed to have discovered thousands of mysterious ancient stones buried in the desert caves of Ica, Peru. The stones were in many shapes and sizes. Some were the size of a coin and some were as large as a basketball. What made the stones so interesting were the images carved on them. The stones showed many things that did not yet exist in the ancient world. They indicated that the prehistoric people of the region were far more technologically advanced than anyone could have ever imagined. The farmer had organized his stones into several collections of images:

1. The ancient Earth showing all of the continents that we know today, but also including one more that we don't know
2. Advanced medical operations such as open-heart surgery, and brain transplants
3. Ancient star maps
4. Telescopes and other tools of astronomy
5. Humans riding horses (before they were brought to the South American continent)
6. Huge monsters or dinosaurs attacking or helping humans
7. Flying machines

In total over 15,000 stones were collected and the farmer began selling his treasures to tourists and made good money doing this. He soon became a local and international celebrity and attracted the attention of archeologists from around the world who wanted to investigate his findings. But the Peruvian government quickly got involved and arrested the farmer. He later admitted that it was all a hoax; he said that he'd carved the images on the stones himself.

Several years later a town physician received a carved Ica stone for his birthday. He didn't know what it was and found the stone interesting. It had an image of a prehistoric fish that wasn't well known. He searched around for the source of the stone and eventually came to the farmer. The farmer still had thousands of stones, but when asked about their origins the farmer said that he had carved them himself. The doctor didn't believe this was possible since it would have taken the farmer over a hundred years to carve the stones even if he had done one every day.

The Ica stones are mysterious because they challenge what we know about the ancient world and human evolution. They suggest that humans were brought to Earth from different planets and more advanced civilizations. There is no organic material on the rocks to help determine their age, but scientists in Germany have been able to tell that the lines or etchings on the stones date from ancient times.
